STEWART'S LONG DRIVE TO THE DUNHILL

24 hours after finishing second on the Tartan Tour, Michael Stewart found himself sharing the lead at the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship with Australia's Jack Buchanan – while 2023 champion Matt Fitzpatrick lurks three shots back

Michael Stewart begins today's second round of the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship as the frontrunner for home hopes of a second successive Scottish winner. After Bob MacIntyre's popular victory in 2025, Stewart is in uncharted waters at the top of a DP World Tour leaderboard. A seven-under-par 65 at Carnoustie yesterday gave Stewart, 36, a share of the lead with Australia's Jack Buchanan, who matched that score at Kingsbarns. Stewart has won twice this year on Scotland's Tartan Pro Tour. While the big names practiced on Wednesday, Stewart was finishing second in the Duddingston Classic before heading to the glamour of the Dunhill Links. "I played Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, straight here and these are courses I know well," he said. "I have played here a lot in the past and I'm just delighted to be part of the event. It's easy to get yourself up for this, isn't it?" "I feel at home playing links golf. I grew up on a links course. I don't mind the wind. As long as the rain stays away, we're good to go."

The two leaders are being chased by a pack of Springboks: incredibly, South Africa accounts for the next seven names on the leaderboard, with Casey Jarvis and MJ Daffue one shot behind the leaders, one ahead of Dean Burmester, Brandon Stone, Daniel Van Tonder, Christiaan Burke and Hennie Du Plessis. Three shots off the lead is the world No 4 and 2023 champion Matt Fitzpatrick, who shot 68 at Carnoustie. One shot further back, Brooks Koepka leads American hopes of a first Dunhill Links champion from that country.

OLD PALS TURN BACK CLOCK

Padraig Harrington and Lee Westwood shared an early Carnoustie memory during their first round yesterday

Padraig Harrington and Lee Westwood found themselves talking about the 1992 Amateur Championship when they were paired together in the opening round at Carnoustie.

Harrington, holds very dear the memories of his 2007 Open Championship victory at the great Angus links – plus the many wonderful moments he has enjoyed while playing in all 25 Alfred Dunhill Links Championships.

He was champion in 2002 and 2006, too, and is rightly proud of his unique record of appearing in every edition of this tournament since its launch in 2001.

“The memories flood back when I come to Carnoustie,” said Harrington, pictured right. “But Lee and I go so far back that today we found ourselves reminiscing about that Amateur Championship here before we became pros.”

“That is what is so nice about coming back to a championship course like Carnoustie, because there are always great stories from the times you have had in the past.

“It was a lovely day to play Carnoustie, with the weather nice and we had a lot of people following our group. It was a nice and relaxing day all round and I haven’t done myself any harm with a 71.

“I played OK on the front nine but had two careless bogeys and it was nice to come back with three birdies on the back nine. They were all kick-in putts, as I had two eagle tries and a tap in third birdie.”

Harrington, now 55, remains highly competitive and Westwood, who made brilliant birdies on both the 17th and 18th holes to finish also with a one under-par 71, paid tribute to his fellow former Ryder Cup teammate.

“Padraig is one of the best exponents of the short game that we’ve ever seen and that’s a big reason why he won three major championships. We had a great time out there today, playing together again and I’m really pleased with the way I finished my round.

“I don’t think I’ve ever gone 3, 3, 3 on these last three holes before, so it was memorable. A great way to finish.”

Westwood, 53, showed that he is still capable of competing with the best and, between them, he and Harrington have won 40 DP World Tour titles.

Harrington, who won the Open and the US PGA Championship in 2008, added: “It’s a no-brainer for me to keep coming back to play at the Alfred Dunhill Links because I just love links golf and, additionally, I always think I can have a bit of an advantage when I play on these courses.”

JAMIESON HAPPY AT HOME AFTER FIRST WIN SINCE 2012

*How do you possibly follow a tournament win that brings a Presidential phone call?
The Scot hopes that the answer is another victory – this time at the Home of Golf*

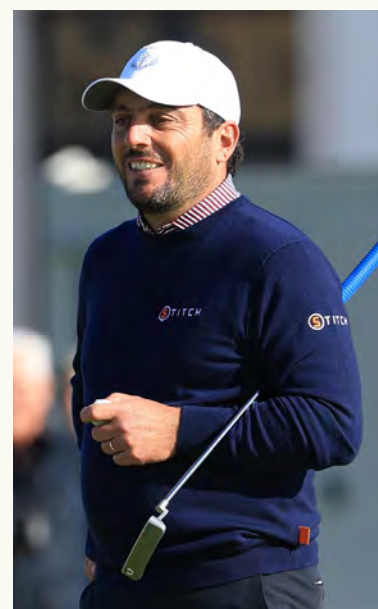

Scott Jamieson is desperate to back up his first DP World Tour win in 14 years with victory in the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship.

The Scot’s triumph at the Nexo Championship at Trump International Golf Links in August was his first success since 2012 – and carried the bonus of helping to secure his tour card for another season.

Now, the 42-year-old – who finished tied fifth at last year’s Links Championship, six behind fellow Scot and eventual winner Bob MacIntyre, pictured left – is looking to secure another emotional win in front of home galleries.

“I had a good week here last year, which helped secure my card for this year,” said Jamieson, pictured right, who shot 69 at Kingsbarns yesterday to finish on three-under par. “It’s great fun playing the Old Course, Carnoustie, and Kingsbarns. I like links golf. You get something different every day.

CARNOUSTIE MAGIC FOR MOLINARI

Francesco Molinari relished a trip down memory lane as he shot a two-under-par 70 at Carnoustie – the scene of his 2018 Open triumph.

The Italian was a part of three winning Ryder Cup teams, but the unmistakable highlight of his individual career came eight years ago – and he revealed he rarely gets the chance to return to the scene of that victory.

After an opening round which featured four birdies and just two bogeys he said: “I haven’t actually played here very much since 2018 so it was very nice to walk round and have a few good memories coming back to me.

“It’s also a general feel that I get when I come back to Carnoustie, particularly on certain holes. I got a nice reception from the spectators during the round, especially from some of the locals here who also remember watching that Open in 2018.”

Molinari’s Open win was clinched with a bogey-free final round in a Scottish heatwave that saw him surge to the front of a pack including Rory McIlroy and Justin Rose. He became the first Italian to win a major.

“It’s always going to be a special place for me, and I will try to keep coming back here as many times as I can in the future, that’s for sure.”

Molinari was not the only Open champion playing at Carnoustie yesterday. Australian Cam Smith was the last golfer to win the Claret Jug at St Andrews, in 2022 and he completed a two-under-par opening round of 70.

I love all three, but St Andrews – the Old Lady – has to be number one.

“Winning in Scotland again would be amazing but doing it at St Andrews would make it a dream come true.”

Jamieson’s win at the Nexo – which led to a call with the President of the United States, Donald Trump – was his first since the Nelson Mandela Championship back in 2012.

“It felt amazing,” said Jamieson, who is partnered with amateur Duncan Simpson-Craib in the Team Championship this week. “I didn’t realise it had been almost 14 years. To win – especially at home in Scotland – was incredible.”

MARATHON MAN MILNER IN FOR THE LONG RUN

The former Liverpool ace has replaced football with golf and distance running

James Milner has hit the ground running since retiring from a 24-year career in football earlier this year. The 40-year-old is in training for the New York Marathon and has also found more time to indulge his passion for golf.

He finished the first round of his Alfred Dunhill Links debut, alongside US pro partner Sean Crocker, on nine-under-par in the Team Championship.

“It’s incredible,” said Milner, who won the Champions League with Liverpool in 2019. “I’ve watched it over the years and to get the opportunity to come here, I feel very fortunate.

“I started playing golf when I was 16, but it’s tough with the football calendar. I used to binge-play, whenever I got a week off. Then I wouldn’t pick up the clubs for a while.

“Now I’ve got a bit more time, I plan to play more - but I’m also training for the New York Marathon, so now that is getting in the way of the golf.”

Milner is hopeful of making the cut. “It’d be lovely to get an extra day’s golf, but I just want to experience and enjoy it alongside Sean. I played with Danny Willett and Lee Westwood at Kingsbarns [on Tuesday] and just watching these guys play close up is incredible.”

BALE AIMS FOR SUNDAY

Gareth Bale achieved a sporting ambition when he teed it up at St Andrews on the final day of 2024’s Alfred Dunhill Links Championship. The Welsh football legend – along with pro partner Dan Brown – successfully made the cut two years ago and went on to finish tied 15th in the Team Championship.

Returning for his third appearance, he is eager to sample the thrill of the final day of competition once again. “Making the cut was a cool thing to do,” said Bale, who won the Champions League five times with Real Madrid.

“To play at St Andrews on a Sunday – and see how they all go into super-focused mode when it really matters – was an incredible experience and one I won’t forget.

“My aim for the week is to try to make the cut. But I’ll also just try to enjoy myself, hit some good shots and get out of the way of the pros when I need to.”

Bale – on four-under-par in the Team Championship, playing with pro Marcus Armitage – has enthusiastically embraced the sport since retiring from football in 2023. That year marked his debut at this Championship, and he immediately fell in love with each of the three courses.

“It’s an incredible tournament and playing these three courses is special for any golfer. The Old Course is the home of golf, and it comes with all the history; Kingsbarns is a perfect mixture of beautiful scenery and just an amazing golf course; and then there’s Carnoustie, which is a major championship venue and tests every part of your game.”

SUNSHINE LIGHTS UP THE LINKS

It was cricket weather on the Old Course at St Andrews when former England star Kevin Pietersen teed off on the 18th hole in the first round. The Royal and Ancient glistened in the sun on a day of high temperatures and low scores as Pietersen and his professional partner Wade Ormsby finished on three-under-par in the Team Championship.

TEAM WATSON IS BEST FOR BUBBA

Will playing with his pro athlete wife Angie help Bubba Watson become the first American Dunhill champion?

Double Masters champion Bubba Watson hopes that playing with his wife will inspire him to become the first US winner of the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship.

The 47-year-old is playing with his wife, Angie, a former professional basketball player, in this year's Team Championship.

"As a former athlete she loves playing, and we love spending time together," he said. "This is our 22nd anniversary present. We play a lot of golf back home so to be together when I'm competing is amazing.

"My job is to make her excited, happy and enjoy the round. Having her beside me takes away from thinking about bad stuff and helps me stay committed to each shot."

Watson's compatriot Brooks Koepka finished tied second in 2015, two shots behind eventual winner Thorbjørn Olesen, but no American player has ever managed to get over the line.

"I've heard that no American has ever won it," added Watson. "It would be amazing to pull off that feat. And to do it alongside my wife would be a dream come true."

Watson is a regular visitor to the Championship and reflected on his love affair with the three courses. "The beauty of this place draws me back year after year. Golf starts right here. Playing these courses is a dream come true and being able to play with my wife is a bonus.

"The fun moments are always when it gets super windy and the golf gets really difficult. When you're going through the rain and wind you think it's miserable. Then, on the 19th hole, you remember how great it really was.

"I can't pick a favourite course. For the history, you have to say St Andrews. For the madness, you have to say Carnoustie, for beauty, you have to say Kingsbarns."

Team Watson are three-under-par in the Team Championship. South African pro MJ Daffue and his amateur partner Paul Harris, share the lead on 12-under par with Spaniard Ivan Cantero and Thomas Jermoluk.

BRANDEN ON HIS MOMENT OF GRACE AT ST ANDREWS

Branden Grace has more than his share of history at the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship.

The South African is the youngest winner of this tournament at 24 years and 140 days old when he triumphed in 2012. His opening 60 at Kingsbarns that year still stands as the course record. He is also to date the only South African winner of this tournament. And he remains the only player to have achieved the ‘Dunhill Double’ of winning both the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship and its South African sister tournament, the Alfred Dunhill Championship.

“I’ll never forget the day I won at St Andrews,” said Grace. “With the links courses in Scotland and the unique challenge of Leopard Creek in South Africa, they are so different that when you win on both you feel you can win anywhere. It gave me confidence for my career.”

HISTORIC FOUNTAIN FLOWING AGAIN

A conservation project supported by the Alfred Dunhill Links Foundation has restored a St Andrews landmark

The historic Whyte Melville Memorial Fountain is flowing once again in the heart of St Andrews following major restoration work by the St Andrews Pilgrim Foundation.

The ambitious conservation project was made possible with support from the Alfred Dunhill Links Foundation, a patron of the Pilgrim Foundation, which has helped restore one of the town's best-known landmarks and preserve it for future generations.

Dita Stanis-Traken, Chair of the St Andrews Pilgrim Foundation, said: "This is a truly significant and emotional moment for me and for everyone involved in the project. The restoration of the Whyte Melville Memorial Fountain on Market Sreet has been the Foundation's most ambitious conservative undertaking, representing years of planning and fundraising.

"We are grateful to Fife Council for their support and to our patron, the Alfred Dunhill Links Foundation, whose funding has made this project possible.

"Seeing water cascading once more from this iconic fountain is a great boon for the community and a fitting celebration of the rich heritage of St Andrews."

St Andrews is the Home of Golf and the Old Course is at its heart. The most famous golf course in the world, it measures 7,375 yards, has a par of 72 and radiates a sense of history. As the weather changes, it can be benign one day and a mighty challenge the next, but throughout it remains the greatest stage on which golf is played.
