KOEPKA CHASES AMERICAN DREAM

Casey Jarvis of South Africa leads the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship after a final-hole birdie broke a four-way deadlock at the top of the leaderboard, but a five-time major champion and last year's winner here are looming large

Casey Jarvis, the 23-year-old South African seeking his third win of the year, birdied his final hole at Kingsbarns yesterday to claim the lead in the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship. Jarvis is out on his own on 11-under-par after a 67 in his second round, which included seven birdies. After victories in the Magical Kenya Open and the Investec South African Open, he is now in pole position for a first landmark win in Europe. He is a single shot ahead of the trio of England's Matthew Jordan,

Rocco Repetto Taylor of Spain and Jarvis's fellow South African, MJ Daffue. All four are looking over their shoulder at the ominous pair of Brooks Koepka and Bob MacIntyre, both on eight-under. Koepka, the five-time major winner, pictured above, arrived in Scotland with the objective of becoming the first American to win the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship in its 25th year. "I've been fortunate to have played in six Dunhill Links, as well as two Open Championships at St. Andrews, and these trips are always highlights to my year," said the 36-year-old from Florida, who shot a 67 at Kingsbarns. "It's a surprise to me that there hasn't been an American winner, so to achieve that would be a memorable moment for me in the Championship's 25th year. I love Links golf and St. Andrews is my favourite course in the world. I could play there every day for the rest of my life and never get tired." MacIntyre produced one of the rounds of the day at Kingsbarns, firing an inspired 65 to get his defence of the tournament he won last year back on track.

SUN, SEA, SAND AND TOMMY FLEETWOOD – A PERFECT DAY AT KINGSBARN

It couldn't be any better for the spectators at picturesque Kingsbarns Golf Links enjoying a spectacular morning in the second round of the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship, combining the perfect weather with one of the most popular golfers in the world. Tommy Fleetwood always draws a crowd of fans and yesterday they cheered him on to a four-under-par 68.

JARVIS' STAR ON THE RISE

Seven South Africans are within striking distance after two rounds, but the one at the top of the leaderboard is adding to a breakout year which has already yielded two titles

Casey Jarvis has enhanced his growing reputation as a rising force in the game as he goes in search of his third DP World Tour victory this year while also leading the push for more South African glory in the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship.

Jarvis' 67 at Kingsbarns included six birdies in seven holes to the turn and lifted him into a one-stroke lead on 11 under par. He's now looking to add to a breakthrough season in which he won back-to-back DP World Tour titles.

"I played really nicely. I hit the ball really solid. My approach play was really good. Luckily I rolled in a few putts in my front nine, and I just felt really in control of my game out there," said Jarvis.

Jarvis also leads the charge to become only the second South African winner of the Dunhill Links after Branden Grace in 2012, and he's relishing the prospect of victory on the famous Old Course.

"You watch The Open growing up as a kid and now to be in contention in a tournament like this – yeah, I'm just looking forward to it and I can't wait to get out there over the weekend."

Just one shot behind him is countryman MJ Daffue, while the South African challenge is further bolstered by Daniel Cronje, Brandon Stone, Daniel van Tonder, JC Ritchie and Hennie du Plessis, all part of a twenty-strong group, lying four strokes off the lead.

CHAMPION MACINTYRE MOVES UP

Defending champion Bob MacIntyre had the large crowds at Kingsbarns with a second round 65 that leaves the Scot poised to challenge for back-to-back Dunhill Links titles.

MacIntyre had eight birdies but also a bogey that, he admitted only spurred him on to greater heights.

MacIntyre is three strokes behind leader Casey Jarvis and said: "I drove it well and took advantage of the par fives where I was on in two, taking the birdies and having an eagle putt on the short par four.

"I was keeping it simple, but I was disappointed with the bogey. It's just the way I play golf. I'm always on the edge. And it's funny, the bogey spurred me on and I then went three birdies in a row."

Fellow Scot Michael Stewart, who led after the first round despite finishing a Tartan Tour event 24 hours earlier, remained in contention, level with MacIntyre.

TARTAN IS THE CHOICE FOR LINKS

On a day that had just about every kind of weather imaginable, the fashionistas of the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship still managed to record impressive sartorial scores.

Ian Poulter, right, has long topped the world rankings in the fashion stakes and selected a pair of blue tartan trousers to take him round Carnoustie yesterday.

Also at Carnoustie, Piers Morgan followed the tartan trend, with a touch more subtlety than Poulter.

The broadcaster – a regular at the Dunhill Links – kept the wind at bay with a gilet accented by a tartan stripe down each side. Morgan and his pro partner Matthew Jordan are 15-under-par in the Team Championship.

At Kingsbarns, Europe's Ryder Cup captain, Luke Donald, was showing those golfers hopeful of making his squad for Adare Manor that the boss still has a few tricks up his sleeve. Donald is on five-under-par after a deft 68 and he did it in a standout pastel pink sweater.

In a red quarter-zip, shades and an olive hat, Pawan Munjal was the stand-out amateur on the Old Course. The CEO of Hero Motocorp and pro Sam Bairstow finished on 13-under-par.

WILL MAKES HIS SHOTS COUNT

The WHOOP CEO and pro David Law are on the charge

If Will Ahmed makes the cut in the Team Championship at this year's Alfred Dunhill Links Championship, then he will owe a debt to his Scottish pro partner.

The WHOOP CEO watched on in admiration as Scotland's David Law shot a 66 in the second round at Carnoustie to finish on five-under par.

The on-course chemistry between Ahmed and Law also saw them climb the Team Championship leaderboard to a tie for third on 20-under par.

"My partner, David, had it going today. I was trying to get a little better by osmosis," said Ahmed, whose wearable technology is now embedded in professional golf.

"Overall, I played pretty well. I was able to use the holes I got a few strokes on to make a par or two."

MJ Daffue and Paul Harris share the lead on 21-under with Daniel Hillier and Craig Heatley, pictured above.

"I made the cut with Johannes Veerman in 2022 and we finished tied fifth," recalled Ahmed. "Just playing St Andrews on a Sunday is special. There was a great atmosphere and the pros were bringing their best stuff."

WHOOP ambassadors include Rory McIlroy and Justin Thomas. "We've got a lot of players on the PGA and DP World Tours who wear the product," added Ahmed. "We love golf and we're going to continue to invest in it."

PERFECT STYLE ON SHOW FROM RONAN AND LEE

Irish singer Ronan Keating had what he called “the privilege” of an impromptu swing lesson from his professional partner Lee Westwood before teeing off at Kingsbarns – and then played some of the best golf of his life.

Keating, who shot to fame with the band Boyzone, is a keen golfer and is making his 14th appearance in the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship.

The lesson took place on the range, before he and Westwood shot a second-round team score of 63, and Keating explained: “Lee watched my swing yesterday when we were at Carnoustie and he said that I needed to come down into the shot more than I was doing.

“He spent some time explaining it to me and demonstrating what I needed to do. What a privilege it is getting a lesson like that from the great man – and he didn’t charge me either! But being around the pros and having relationships with them that enables things like that to happen is just another brilliant part of this great tournament.

“And Lee’s lesson did have the desired effect because I played really well. The sun was shining for the most part, the forecast afternoon rain stayed away and we dovetailed well as a team. It was a super day.

“Just being out on these three fantastic courses, playing alongside the professionals, really elevates your game. I just think you pay more attention to every shot and that in turn often makes you play better. Days like today are a real treat, aren’t they?”

Westwood said: “Most amateurs try to get from where they are to being perfect, and what they really need to concentrate on is getting consistently good from 60 yards or so away from the pin.

“Don’t try to get perfect, just try to get the ball within 25 feet from the flag when you are faced with a shot from 60 to 100 yards out. Then concentrate on turning any three-putt into a two-putt. That’s how you can really get better.”

As Ronan Keating will attest, that Lee Westwood knows what he’s talking about.

WATCHING RASMUS WAS A HIT FOR HUEY

The chart-topper has a tip for his fellow amateurs hoping to make the cut – find a pro who can make 12 birdies!

Numbers are important to Huey Lewis. Eighteen is the number of times he has appeared at the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship. Five is how many occasions he has made the cut. But two numbers stick out more than the others: 61 is how many strokes it took Huey’s pro partner Rasmus Neergaard-Petersen to get round Kingsbarns two years ago, posting a total that included 12 birdies.

The music legend also had a close-up view of Simon Dyson’s 63 at the Old Course in 2011. “It was amazing to see Simon’s 63 and then to watch Rasmus make 12 birdies was incredible. That’s how you make the cut – you get your pro to shoot 61 or 63!” laughed Lewis, who is at six-under in the Team Championship, playing with Nathan Kimsey.

The 76-year-old looks forward to the social side of the Championship as much as the golf. “I met Tico Torres here for the first time and he’s become one of my great friends. Mike Rutherford, from Mike and the Mechanics, is another. It’s just a wonderful event.”

Fellow musician Tom Chaplin, pictured right with Huey, achieved a highlight last year. “I played really well at Carnoustie – to go somewhere that hard and play well was incredibly memorable,” said the Keane singer, at -18 with his pro partner Adrian Meronk.

FIREWORKS TO CELEBRATE 25 YEARS OF ADLC

The St Andrews night sky will come alive tonight with a spectacular fireworks display as the Championship celebrates its 25th anniversary.

The evening's entertainment will begin with a performance by the St Andrews Pipe Band, who will play on the 18th fairway of the Old Course, with the fireworks show beginning at 8.25pm.

This colourful event is open to all and is free to attend, with great views available along the Links Road. With clear skies forecast, you won't want to miss the show!

WINNING DISPLAY IS A TOUCH OF GLASS

Scottish clothing and accessories specialist Kinloch Anderson has taken top prize for its golf-themed fashion design at this year's Alfred Dunhill window display competition.

The St Andrews retailer, which supplies authentic Scottish Highland dress, custom kilts, tartan clothing and heritage accessories, was awarded the top honour for their imaginative and eye-catching display marking the 25th anniversary of Championship.

With a record number of entrants taking part in this year's annual competition, runner-up prizes were also awarded to hardware, DIY, and household goods provider Home Improvements St Andrews and the independently-owned Keys Bar for their creative displays.

Both the winner and runners-up will be treated to VIP hospitality at the Old Course Hotel for tomorrow's final round.

GOLF SUBBUTEO IS PETER'S PICK

The Dragons' Den star is stacking up golf investments and formed a star-powered four-ball with Piers Morgan

Dragons' Den star Peter Jones waited years for a golf investment – only for three to come along at once.

Since he played the tournament 12 months ago, the entrepreneur's long search for a golf project ended in spectacular fashion when he acquired the retailer American Golf in February. He has also invested in two pioneering golf products through the hit BBC show.

"I was looking for golf investments and luckily they came into the Den," said Jones. "I've got the ball cleaner - SWISH - which has gone incredibly well. It's a simple product. It's got water in it, you put your ball in, swish it around and it cleans it. We actually ran out of stock due to high demand.

"This season, I've invested in a business called Finger Golf, which is like Subbuteo for golf. When I first saw it, I thought, 'will that catch on?' But it's so addictive. When you hit a shot, the flight that you get is incredible – the ball goes three to four feet in the air. People are going to have a lot of fun playing it at home.

"But my biggest investment in golf has been American Golf. I've now got 82 very large footprint stores and a few nice brands like Stromberg and Golfino. All of this happened in the last 12 months."

Jones is playing in the Team Championship with pro partner James Morrison and they finished their second round at Carnoustie on seven-under-par.
